Attorney-General Reserves Right To Prefer Indictment

G. H. Steer, K.C., Obtains Court Permission To Proceed With Private Prosecution—Powell Decision Later

First round in the legal battle which will be waged within the trial of George F. Powell, London, Douglas social credit expert, and Joseph Unwin, Social Credit M.L.A. for Edson, on charges of alleged defamatory libel, went to George H. Steer, private prosecutor, when he obtained from the court permission to proceed with the indictment of Mr. Unwin following an application made by Hugh Calais Macdonald, K.C., on behalf of both accused, that the charge be stricken from the docket.

The defendant was granted permission not to be present because permission had not been obtained from the Attorney-General of Alberta to proceed with the charge. Mr. Steer said he had received permission by the court to speak further to the charges of defamation libel.

The application by Mr. Macdonald was made immediately after E. B. Cross, K.C., for the defense, had made the following statement:

"I have instructions to prefer no indictment for libel or to take part in the prosecution of the same." Mr. Cross said he had instructions not to interfere with the rights of the private prosecutor.

PRIVATE PROSECUTION

"This is the attitude which the crown has taken from the initiation of the case," he said. "It is a judicial proceeding. The crown is not in any way interfering or obstructing the proceedings of the court in any way."

There is absolutely no desire on the part of the crown in the slightest degree to stifle prosecution. The crown is simply standing by, neither aiding, abetting or obstructing."

The cross-examination of the defendant with respect to his instructions came up during the course of the trial.

It was following this declaration that Mr. Macdonald made his application to the court for a stay of the trial, until the attorney-general charged strike from the docket. Mr. Macdonald said he had no objection in cases to have permission from the Attorney-General of the province to proceed with the trial if there was no permission granted in this case. He called authorities to support his contention.

Mr. Steer followed with an application to the court for the right to proceed with the trial and outlined briefly the incidents leading up to the publication of the libel.

Mr. Macdonald objected on the grounds that he had no right to proceed before the jury, and also that fact should not be given before the jury.

Mr. Justice Justice: "I presume the facts to be placed before the court will be given to them to adduce evidence to the jury when the case opens."

Addressing the jury at the outset:

"Address the question to the court."

Spanish Treaty Only for Trade, Eden Declares

Minister Discloses Indemnity Will be Paid For Sunken Vessel, While Seven Others Are Liberated

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Foreign Secretary Eden last night told the house of commons the proposed exchange of commercial agents between Great Britain and the insurgent Spanish administration at Salamanca would be completed within a "very short time."

Winding up a debate on trade negotiations with the foreign minister, Mr. Eden said the exchange would make it "absolutely clear" that neither as a government nor as a nation (insurgent) France recognized the "general Franco government."

Answering Mr. Fletcher, Labor, who asserted the step was taken without consulting France, Mr. Eden said the government had informed France before the negotiations reached the concluding stage.

FOR TRADE.—The British home necessities of the French trade alone prompted the Foreign Minister to act so quickly.

The first three-quarters of 1937, he said, insurgent Spain purchased goods worth $100,000,000 out of a total of $260,000,000 paid to the whole of Spain.

Commodities, including foodstuffs, petroleum and jute were among the items in the sense of importation.

"Externally..."

BEAVERBROOK DPLURES DUKE DELAYED VISIT

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Lord Beaverbrook, who has come to one of his periodic visits, expressed regret that the Duke of Windsor postponed his trip to the United States.

"He would have made many friends through his visit," said Beaverbrook, adding, "I know he was a serviceable dependent, and parastic, and playing flattery upon bankers or some or several of them, and was a sympathetic figure, but I think he was fit for contempt and unfit to live should he be killed, which I believe he would be if he was not justified or excuse and was likely to injure their reputation."

Worley Similar

Thinking the Duke was similar with the arrival of the second charge against him, Mr. Worley said he was similar with the addition that it exposed the men involved in the Duke's visit to the United States.

Asked if the Duke was an authority figure, Mr. Worley replied:

"That man is in my view who are now talking out about conception should also see that every class is the national burden, and advocate conception of money as well," he said.

UP TO NECKS IN DEBT

By mismanagement of our public estate," he continued, "we are facing financial difficulties which will put us in a bind."

Mr. Worley said he was asked to refer to the Second Committee of Canada by the Federal government of the three Alberta men who were members of the Conservative group.

Following the reading of the first charge a jury was sworn from the first 12 jurors called. Only six challenges were made, and the second charge, four, could not be sustained, and two from the defense panel.

THE JURY

According to present arrangements J. F. Fraley, K.C., of the attorney-general's department, will leave for Ottawa on Monday morning before Chief Justice W. P. Duff on Friday to speak to the court for the defense in regard to the reference to the Second Committee of Canada by the Federal government of the three Alberta men who were members of the Conservative group.

Carrying on the case, Mr. Worley, George F. Steer, K.C., with W. F. Bowker for the prosecution, R. Fred Bowker with Hugh Calais Macdonald, K.C., and R. F. Samuels for the defense.

Addressing the jury at the outset:

"Address the question to the court."

Russo-Japanese Relations Are Near Breaking Point

Strained Diplomatic Situation Involved in Friction Over Anti-Communist Pact—Care Taken With Troops

TOKYO, Nov. 9.—A powerful Japanese force deployed today along the Soviet frontier of Japanese dominated Manchukuo while Japanese and neutral observers shared the almost unanimous belief relations between Russia and Japan were near the breaking point.

The strained diplomatic situation had been aggravated by the presence of crack Japanese troops on the Manchukuo border, news of the recent arrival of Gen. Genghis Khan anti-communist front with the entrance of Italy and friction between the Soviet and Soviet-garrisoned Manchukuo.

Three Meetings Hear Candidates

FORTIN PLAN RESURRECTION MAYOR'S AIM

Many Civic Reforms Advocated By Small Army Of Aspirants

nothing will prevent me from getting out in interest rates by negotiating with Fortin, because he very emphatically stated there would be no cut in existing rates on outstanding debentures.

GOVERNMENT PRESSURE

"But there have been great reductions in interest rates which government pressure has been brought to bear to force them. This was the case of the stand Premier Mitchell Hepburn took action. As far as his stand Windsor had to pay 10 per cent in interest rates they had been paying and their equitable deal went through."

"You didn't hear of any of their schemes or elected representatives who say they should not be given this relief and should pay full rates, even though it meant cutting homes and people's incomes needed work people needed homes and the city needed more revenue."

Bressing the fact the same average tax rate was paid in Edmonton, Mayor Clarke said: "It can be done, but only by the action of the taxpayers themselves and if elected I will take it as a mandate from the taxpayers of Edmonton to have a practical government to take the necessary actions."

Under it would be given authority to levy for a tax rate to care of the principal outstanding and interest rates at not more than three per cent which would mean an annual saving to Edmonton taxpayers of around $900,000 and additional savings to operate on a 40-mill rate tax."

PROVISIONAL AID

Dealing with a reporter he had been critical because of his friendly relations with the provincial government, the mayor declared that this was the reason the mayor of Edmonton should take office if he is trying to get the government to proclaim legislation already on the books which would make it unnecessary for the city to act on its own. "I had to retract that statement. I had forgotten to count the number of people living under the raters."

"If the city is courageous enough to stand up and demand enough to tackle this problem in a constructive way, it will not only remove unemployment and make the city more attractive, but also reap the reward of virtue by re-establishing the credit and adding to the tax revenues of the city."

Mr. Cowper said he had definite ideas on most matters of public policy in connection with the city administration. He asked the audience to question him. Only one member of the audience accepted the offer.

For my vote on the representation that you opposed Mr. E. L. Gray in his proposal for a 40-mill housing project.

"The people should have been given a chance to accept or reject the Fortin scheme and then give them the opportunity of stating now whether they are for it or against it."

40 MILL RATE

In closing his discussion on this point, Mayor Clarke pledged that if I am elected I will do my best to mandate from the taxpayers of Edmonton to re-open the question of the operation and helpful assistance of the Fortin plan in negotiations in negotiating a new settlement, mainly along the lines of the Windsor settlement, to give immediate relief and a mill rate for 1938 not exceeding 40."

Turning his attention to other civic issues, Mayor Clarke charged that Mr. J. W. Fry, the city tax collector and chairman of the taxation committee, which was submitting here to the Provincial Government, was behalf of Alberta municipalities, was that result a recommendation that might result in the closure of property held by those who make little or no direct contribution to the support of the community.

PROPERTY VOTE ONLY

The mayor declared that this brief, not yet authorized by the Edmonton council, contained his own inference that only the owners of property should be allowed to vote and also the following statement: "It is not in accordance with the principles of democratic government that the ballot be restricted to those who are held by those who make little or no direct contribution to the support of the community."

If this does not show just how the wind is blowing, then I can see why the people of Clarke."

In closing the mayor declared that Edmonton was facing a prosperous future and that the city had informed electors that utility and public works improvements undertaken in the last few years had been in 20 years, and coupled with this was the building program carried on by large-scale developments in Edmonton for the coming year.

Mayor Clarke stated John W. Fry, mayoral candidate, for bringing personalities into the campaign, and his reference to his (the mayor's) physical condition. "Mr. Fry is making the campaign on a personal basis, discussing civic issues and telling electors I am not physically fit." Mayor Clarke told electors at Garneau school: "I never felt better in my life—how do I look to you?" This was only a response with a smile as the man stood on the platform.

J. S. Cowper drew some laughter at the outset by apologizing for producing a doctor's certificate, and producing a doctor's certificate, saying, "I haven't got a doctor. Nor will I solicit support on the basis of my healthy and active dental condition."

COWPER EXPLAINS PLAN

Outlining his large-scale better-housing scheme, Mr. Cowper said the plan would be to have the city dead to the needs of the unemployed who were even more heavily hit by the boycott of the mortgage and loan institutions than by the relief scheme.

Achieving that in employment, the city would have to raise the taxation all from the financing of the city boycott, he pointed out that in the last year, 100 houses were built at a cost of $1,000,000, and these were of less value than $1,000, before they had to be built for cash.

DOMINION AID

"The Dominion," he said, "as far as the Dominion is concerned, hundreds of people are ready to let contracts for the reconstruction of their cities."

The Dominion government over two years ago passed a bill authorizing municipalities at 2 per cent in aid of building. The deputy minister and the city manager were discussing how all the required money could be raised at an average of 3½ per cent, and the intent of the amendment against the outstanding debts of the city.

With these measures offered, no attempt had been made to have the city meet the demands needed work people needed homes and the city needed more revenue."

Continuing, Mayor Clarke outlined his plan to attack on the financial side, which he termed a previous scheme to extract the latent of exorbitant interest rates levied on an already overburdened taxpayer. It was the intent of the amendment of the 1937 budget for disregarding the electoral right of the city to have a place built with the help of the city.

He held this place could have been avoided if council had not insisted on suspending the suspension of sinking fund payments and the full capital amount of relief charges instead of meeting them out of the general revenue.

Mr. Cowper, aldermanic candidate, appealed for election on the basis of his past record on city council. He related that he had been a part-time committee chair during his leave work during the past 20 years, and had always been seen in the creation of projects which would improve the lot of young citizens of the city, and the creation of a school with no jobs to go to.

Other school board candidates. Any sound educational system must be based upon the old adage that "education is the key to the body. Thus physical education must form an important part of the curriculum, and the importance of training in a set of exercises must be learned how to take care of their bodies, and good health is the key to success in life. Drills and exercises, first aid, and cooperation with leadership and good sportsmanship should be part of the team game."

CLASS DISTINCTION

Thomas Housley, school board candidate, who believes that all should be given to all children in all schools. When it is given to only the rich, he said, this creates a class distinction.

Charles K. Kelly, aldermanic candidate, also called for greater retention and operation of our public utilities, and continued operation of the land department by the city.

Daniel K. Knott, aldermanic candidate, also called for broad improvements to the airport and will support Edmonton in its battle to expand the North, and the expenditure on the police signal system, but added that the main issue is to elect the mayor from council.

John W. Findlay, aldermanic candidate, also called for a broadening of the tax base, and a raise in wages.

W. H. Miller, aldermanic candidate, I have been a trade unionist for 30 years and know what it takes to run a business. I favor a 40-hour week and a raise in wage.

SCHOOL COSTS

H. T. Emery speaking for Bruce Gould, school board candidate. The school board spends nearly one third of the total tax levy, and can do more with the money they need for school purposes. This has a direct bearing on the welfare of the city.

Dealing with the cost of taxation, the candidate said that if elected he would support the broadening of the tax base in view to relieving the tax load.

John J. Allen, aldermanic candidate, of pension and part in cash.

John W. Findlay called from the back of the hall: "You are not the only person who received a letter."

Answering the question, the candidate said: "While provincial politics have no place in the affairs of the city, I would like to have a letter with me from Mr. Gray, in which he thanks me for my vote on the representation that you opposed Mr. E. L. Gray in his proposal for a 40-mill housing project."

Mr. Findlay was greeted with applause.

John J. Allen, aldermanic candidate, he would vote best on the various issues facing the city, and in reducing unemployment and taxation.

John W. Findlay, aldermanic candidate, he would support the broadening of the tax base in view to relieving the tax load.

He claimed that the Fortin plan was adopted by council was far different from the one first presented.

Guy Patterson, aldermanic candidate, he made a new move in the day-to-day fight when he brought the price of milk into the city political arena. "The average family in Edmonton is not consuming as much milk as they should be of the available supply. We have a surplus of cost of milk is accountable to distribution. The city should work out a scheme to encourage the distribution of milk and then there would be more profit to the city."

He advised all citizens to be sure to use the city market when possible, and a businessman who had had the working people will have a walk away from the city."

OUTSIDE MONEY

Frederick J. Speed, mayorality candidate, declared Edmonton would not show a greater growth in population unless the city had a better economic future, and he suggested that it would be wise to use the money from the financing of the city to build up the vocational training of the youth of the city. He said he would seek the advice of the city engineer if it was necessary to rebuild all the structures of the city.

Alfred Margaret Cragg, aldermanic candidate, reflected her that she had been a mother and wife of 20 years, and had four children, all of whom have been able to receive an education.

She pledged herself to active work in the solution of problems of the city, and to see that the care and guidance of children and youths and adequate help for the youth of the city.

SCORES PLAN

Continuing his attack on the scores plan, which he termed a previous scheme to extract the latent of exorbitant interest rates levied on an already overburdened taxpayer, he said, "In view of the intent of the amendment against the outstanding debts of the city, it would be wise to have a place built with the help of the city."

Walter Morrison, school board candidate, reflected his past record on city council, and the intent of the city to have a place built with the help of the city.

He held this place could have been avoided if council had not insisted on suspending the sinking fund payments and the full capital amount of relief charges instead of meeting them out of the general revenue.

Marie A. Gilchrist, public school board candidate, reflected her that as a mother she was vitally interested in school matters. She had been a teacher in public schools, and had taught in the city for 20 years.

She said she would support the school board in its efforts to provide existing buildings now and to have the city to seek a larger contribution from the provincial government toward education.

SCORES PLAN

Continuing his attack on the scores plan, which he termed a previous scheme to extract the latent of exorbitant interest rates levied on an already overburdened taxpayer, he said, "In view of the intent of the amendment against the outstanding debts of the city, it would be wise to have a place built with the help of the city."

Walter Morrison, school board candidate, reflected his past record on city council, and the intent of the city to have a place built with the help of the city.

He held this place could have been avoided if council had not insisted on suspending the sinking fund payments and the full capital amount of relief charges instead of meeting them out of the general revenue.

Frederick J. Speed, mayorality candidate, declared Edmonton would not show a greater growth in population unless the city had a better economic future, and he suggested that it would be wise to use the money from the financing of the city to build up the vocational training of the youth of the city. He said he would seek the advice of the city engineer if it was necessary to rebuild all the structures of the city.

CONGRATULATIONS TO WINDSOR

Thanks to intervention by the provincial Government of Ontario, the city of Windsor has its entire civic debt paid off. The amount paid off is $1,000,000. New bonds to this amount have been issued, and holders of the old bonds must turn them in and accept the new ones. The principal of the debt is not changed. The holder will get a new bond for the face value of the old bonds turned in.

But the interest rates on the new bonds are lower. The rates run from 1½ per cent to a maximum of 4 per cent. They average out at one-half the former rate. While the changes will be made immediately, there is still time to get the last word on the tax rate and deposited "in trust." Half of the $8,000,000 thus accumulated will be held by the holders of the new bonds. The other half will go back to the city treasurers.

With its average rate cut in half, Windsor will have a better chance of getting its interest with the amount it formerly had to pay as one year's interest. The half of its interest money thus saved can be left in the taxpayers' pockets by reducing taxation, or can be spent on other public works.

For a better solution of its financial troubles, Windsor is indebted to action by the Government in setting 3 per cent as the maximum average rate. Windsor need pay on its bonds.

That's brought Mr. Fortin and the Bondholders of Windsor into line. They are now supporting the plan.

Mr. Fortin and Mr. East are running for re-election to the same offices.

The fate of these gentlemen at the polls will depend on whether the Public Utilities Commission before the city will be bound by it. Three of the aldermen who supported the plan are running for re-election.

Ex-Alderman Fry, absent when the voting was done but approving the plan, has withdrawn. Ex-Alderman Cleary and East are running for re-election to the same offices.

The fate of these gentlemen at the polls will depend on whether the Public Utilities Commission before the city will be bound by it. Three of the aldermen who supported the plan are running for re-election.

For the reason that there is no other issue upon which these candidates particularly deserve defeat. Aside from the Fortin transaction the Public Utilities Commission has not been one to stir up resistance in any way. It has not interfered seriously with their chances of re-election. But they have refused to give the taxpayers any hope to express opposition to their return to Fortin, while it is clear that if re-elected they would remain. Should the taxpayers do that, they will thereby declare by the only means allowed them, that they demand a speedy readjustment along the same lines as that obtained by Windsor.

DIFFERENT WITH EDMONTON

Edmonton also was in financial difficulties at the end of last year. It had run up a deficit for the year amounting to $1,000,000, after levying a 55 cent rate. The bank quite reasonably said it was time that it stop.

A YOUTHFUL COUNCIL

Edmonton's council was thus placed on the same footing as the Windsor council. It could get a problem, either, finding a way to pay down its 3 per cent rate, or getting a 55 cent rate.

The opinion is expressed in Russian circles here that Kerensky, following his recent failure to seize power, will return the seat of government to Moscow, and will then try to unite the moderate and maximalists and to have it support Cossacks and others who have not gone over to the revolution. The situation is being watched with interest, and questions asked in parliament indicate that the country is aware of the great drama now underway.

That discounts the buy-in privilege heavily.

Because it would not be worth taking a chance in the lottery unless money to buy bonds could be got for something less than 4 per cent. If it could be got 4½ per cent money to buy in bonds would be pocketed by the state in the amount of the cost of the double operation. It would probably have to get money at least 4 per cent to make the buying-in privilege feasible.

Once again the Edmonton taxpayers will feel entitled to congratulations to the taxpayers of Windsor, Ontario.

NO TAX REDUCTION HERE

The position of the city of Windsor is the most that could be levied safely in the property in that city. To demand more would mean confiscation of property, and therefore defeat the purpose of collecting the tax more.

Edmonton City Commissioners have said that to meet the city's legal obligations as they now stand would require a tax rate of 78 mills, a rate obviously confiscatory, impossible of collection, and therefore destructive to the bondholders' claim.

But under the Fortin scheme, this rate is to be paid ultimately. For the immediate future the rate is to be cut down by 23 mills, but the taxpayers will pay the 23 mills later on, by the extension of the debt over the year period. We are in no position to take the temporary easement. There is no reduction, now or at any time, in the amount that has to be eventually paid.

The tax rate this year in Edmonton is 54 mills, one mill less than last year. And in their report, published for information of the electors at the end of October, the City Commissioners state "Taxpayers must not expect any reduction below the current tax level on account of the reducing scheme."

That is plain and straightforward. A $4 mill rate is the lowest the Fortin plan will permit, assuming no other city expenditures to be continued on the present basis. If there is to be tax reduction, it must be effected by postponing improvements, starving services, slashing salaries and wages, or adopting some other measures of economy at the expense of the public welfare.

It is not the bondholders' fault that the taxpayers are taxed so heavily. They are to get the last word on the tax rate and deposited "in trust." Half of the $8,000,000 thus accumulated will be held by the holders of the new bonds. The other half will go back to the city treasurers.

It is interesting to note that the position is now what it would have been last August if Mr. Aberhart had been willing then to accede to a reasonable proposal. Before disallowing the law, the Dominion Government suggested summing up the case to the courts. When Mr. Aberhart said no, the Government at once performed its obvious duty to the Alberta public by voting their bill as passed, as far as the constitutionality of the act was concerned.

It is interesting to note that the position is now what it would have been last August if Mr. Aberhart had been willing then to accede to a reasonable proposal. Before disallowing the law, the Dominion Government suggested summing up the case to the courts. When Mr. Aberhart said no, the Government at once performed its obvious duty to the Alberta public by voting their bill as passed, as far as the constitutionality of the act was concerned.

Poppy Now Peace Token, Says King

JILL

By MARY RAYMOND

CASE OF CHARACTERS
JILL WENTWORTH, hermit, at traveling schoolmate.

ALAN JEFFERY, hero, rising young actor.

BARRY WENTWORTH, Jill's step-brother.

JACK WENTWORTH, Jill's brother.

SYLVIA CUTON, Jill's friend.

Yesterday, Jack and Sylvia find each other again after a year apart.
They have a talk, then kiss, then both cry. The scene ends with a new breath between Jill and Harry.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

I SUPPOSE congratulations are in order," Barry sneezed.

"Yes, Barry," Jack replied.

"You'll get all the right, you know."

Jack broke into a smile: "I thought you were a bit better entertainment.
Not that I particularly want your congratulations."

"Sylvia had a long bout," Barry spoke up. "She was doing which way parental preference lies. The favorite stepson of the president is going to make a fortune in real estate."

"I think you're delusional," Sylvia said. "Barry was going up."

"I really may have received a very tiny prick," Barry said.

"Sylvia's right. Barry was amazing under a sense of infirity and wounded pride. This was merely a result of his numerous others when he had been outdistanced by his stepbrothers."

Thinking he was about to be told off, Barry swung it around.
Barry grumbled to himself. He poured out a stiff drink and gulped
it down.

He thought angrily of his father and his devotion to him. At his fathers' death bed he'd be of his mother didn't supplement his allowance from Uncle keepership funds.

A million times! Still, that was good game of that he was what ways held with his stepbrothers.

"Yes, Jill," Barry said.
"Sylvia would have set me up in the old boy's room, if I'd been foolish enough.
But I was too grabbed by this rich plum, just as he grabbed off all the others. Well, some day maybe Barry would be a good husband of his own. He'd like to see him humble. He would like to see him humiliated. It would be nice if it coming to him."

He heard Jill's mother's voice:
"Poor Barry. Poor Barry."

Heavens, wouldn't she ever let him grow up? And then Barry remembered his mother's role.

As Jill moved to reach the door,
Barry said in a hoarse, throaty voice:
"Please don't start any hysterics.
I've had a few drinks. Who wouldn't? Sylvia's right."

"She couldn't," Mrs. Wentworth
cried. "You mustn't take a qual-
eared attitude."

"It's no quarrel, mother. She's going to marry Jack."

For a moment, Mrs. Wentworth stood in stunned silence. Then she heaved herself to a chair.

"I'm afraid he's taking
it harder than I expected. A queer idea was taking shape in his head.

The woman's heart was still much love between his mother and stepmother; she still had influence

with him.

Alan told her, "I'm sorry if it coming to him."

He heard Jill's mother's voice again:

"Poor Barry. Poor Barry."

As Jill moved to reach the door,
Barry said in a hoarse, throaty voice:
"Please don't start any hysterics.
I've had a few drinks. Who
wouldn't? Sylvia's right."

"She couldn't," Mrs. Wentworth
cried. "You mustn't take a qual-
eared attitude."

"It's no quarrel, mother. She's going to marry Jack."

For a moment, Mrs. Wentworth stood in stunned silence. Then she
heaved herself to a chair.

"I'm afraid he's taking
it harder than I expected. A queer
idea was taking shape in his head.

The woman's heart was still

much love between his mother and
stepmother; she still had influence
with him.

Alan told her, "I'm sorry if it coming to him."

Sirs,—

Re: Hangar Accommodation—Airport.

Replies to your recent enquiry in the above connection, I would advise that we are very badly in need of additional hangar accommodation at the Airport. Last winter an average of six, and as many as ten machines, had to stand out on account of the lack of accommodation in the hangar, and this winter it looks as if from twelve to fifteen machines will have to stand outside.

At present the only machines which we can accommodate in the hangar are some of those upon which work is being done by the mechanics. Considerable mechanical servicing has had to be carried on outside during the past two winters, and under severe weather conditions, this is not at all satisfactory. About half a million dollars' worth of equipment is parked outside at present.

Yours truly,

A. W. HADDOW,
City Engineer.

Looking Them Over
By Jack Kelly
Golf Standings
Edmonton Exodus
New Sport Arena

DEFINITE decisions have been reached by the executive of the Alberta Hockey Association on the controversy which has been raging over three of the players sought by the Olds Eks of the Big Six League. Chic Bell, the star of the Edmonton Eskimos, and the two sons of the Olds Eks will accordingly don the livery of that club for the season's ice wars. On the other hand, Walter Holden's request for a transfer has been rejected and he will have to return to the Drumheller Miners if he is going to play hockey.

So far as Edmonton is concerned, news of Olds' acquisition of North and Bannister is satisfying. They should help bolster the club considerably and add some needed voltage to its drawing power.

Final Golf Standings

CONSIDERATE about seven rounds, Edmonton golfers as to the exact number of wins the Maroons and Kildonan-Mountfield combinations have chalked up this season in the Elton challenge cup competition. To get the matter straight, we wired Tom Scott of Calgary, secretary of the committee in charge of this cup, for the official statistics. He stated that the Maroon book credits the Maroons with 12 wins while Kildonan and Mountfield had 11.

This confirms the standings we gave in this column several days ago.

Jack Jackson Off To England

HUSKY Jack Jackson, Edmonton's wrestling "meany" is off to show his stuff in the ring of the British Isles. He is the first Edmonton grappler to go east in many years. The name of Olds County will be seen on the card when the Elton challenge cup competition is over. Sarnia's Triple Threat Half Plays Less, But Tallies the Points

TORONTO, Nov. 8.—Hugh (Bum) Stirling, Sarnia's triple threat half, has two less games than colleague and Big Four gridiron in which to score points but he wreaks enough damage to keep the union's short season that he may be the new scoring champion just the same.

COTTON 36 POINTS

The Bummer lengthened his winning streak yesterday as he rolled up 15 points against the Maroons. Players for a 36-point total with the season finished. The fourth Canadian P.T.A. game was won by the Maroons.

R. Stirling, 36, summary of the Maroons' summary, has won 10 of 12 games, Toronto Blues, has one win, and Guelph, Waterloo, and Ottawa's Tim Herman needs to pass the Imperial Star.

Stirling, who has a wide margin, Oshawa Beach finishing behind him with three wins, and the Maroons, Peter Moores, of Toronto Balmy Beach with a game yet to play against Hamilton.

Tommy Burns, of Montreal Indians, has won all his games against Arrows to break a seven-game losing streak for second place in the Big Four.

Arrows, to their credit, pulled behind Herman's 19, the giant Ottawans inside held to a single point by the Maroons.

Tommy Jackson, of the Maroons, has made since the day of the "united mess vitalis," heroism thumped around, here battles gallantly against unfair tactics, heroically wins out, right is vindicated and everyone goes home happy.

Competition For Madison Square Garden

WELL founded reports from New York are that Madison Square Garden's monopoly on the indoor sports business is about to be broken wide open. The Rockefeller interests are said to be preparing to build a mighty sports arena in Radio City that will have a seating capacity of over 20,000. Reports are that it will have artificial ice and even surpass the Garden, the way it is surpassing the circus. And the circus, Madison Square, a regular annual attraction, will go to the new plant. Several other major events are reported to be ready to move, too.

This new arena will likely endeavor to break the stranglehold which Mike Jacobs secured on the big time fight business when he was made boxing promoter for Madison Square. With the money that the Rockefellers can command to ensure success of their ventures, it would not be surprising if Uncle Mike is headed straight for the knapsack.

Wrestling "Official" has yet been released. It is surmised in some well informed quarters that the new arena may buy the New York American's NFL franchise and build the team into one of the mightiest clubs in the league in order to compete with the Garden's Rangers. It would be a swell dish for Square Red Dutton to find himself under the golden wings of the Rockefellers organization.

VARSITY SKIERS READY FOR SNOW

Wally Hammond Quits Pro Ranks English Cricket

BRISTOL, England, Nov. 9.—

Walter Hammond, England's greatest batsman, is leaving professional ranks and next season will play as an amateur for Gloucestershire.

He and his wife have been engaged clearing the hill and during the past week, no effort has been spared to make the new cabin. The new center of skiing activity is on the river near the little town of Verno, where Varisco ski jump, which borders the south-boundary of the Mayfair holder.

The cabin, though not large, will accommodate 10 people when completed. The finishing touches will be made during the current week.

The Rockfeller president, Dr. Ralph Fisher, promises to be varied and a new high in membership. His membership in the Rockfeller is equal to that of last year, and when the activities come along, it is expected that it will exceed 60.

Ski Drub Cornwall Flyer

CORNWALL, Nov. 9.—A.A.C. Atlantic City Sea Lions fishing mid-season form, dubbed Cornwall Flyers 6-2 last night in a wide-open hockey exhibition game and would have been beaten only if the material was the reason for the tie.

Transfers of James Wilson and Robert Brownlie of Saskatoon to the Portage La Prairie Junior club were approved.

Da Preem Popped; Frenchmen Argue

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Booking circles were held today as to whether the Frenchmen will be allowed to stage a "technical knockout" over the one-time world heavyweight champion.

The "man mountain" was worked out for newspapermen Saturday at the Paris Hotel. Boxers, overruling a demand that he be sent to the canvas with an uppercut.

The one-line champion wasn't asked to say what he had to say in the second quarter of Saturday's slug-fest when taken heavily.

He was asked to say it again in the day and returned to his hotel.

BROKEN NOSE MAKES ROSANO GRIDIRON HERO

Halfback Suffers Badly Busted Nostril, But Plays Gallantly

CALGARY, Nov. 9.—Calgary Brooks, back home after their third victory in the Winnipeg Bombers' winning semi-final of the Western Canada rugby championship series, can Johnny Rosano the hero of three of the four cleared three-yard runs which were called out to

STARRY PERFORMANCE

Playing with a broken nose for the last half of the game, the Brooks' halfback, Johnny Rosano, occupied the left halfback position, kept spot Coach Carl Clegg, who was called out to Spud again skinned over the final three obstacles. Red Hugh, ridden by Lieutenant G. M. Heffernan of the Irish Free State, and Rosano, played in the final round of the Pacific Coast Hockey league schedule here last night.

Brooks' halfback, John Rosano, occupied the left halfback position, kept spot Coach Carl Clegg, who was called out to

In addition to handling the kicking chores and outstanding Bob O'Neil, the Brooks' star, he also fired a pair of passes forward that were touchdowns and a field goal.

Few knew about his injury until Monday night. It came in the first period when he was hit hard by Lou Megal after receiving a kick that he fumbled.

He got up, however, and hopped together. The bird cage protection was over by the Bomber centre end and the second place.

The Belgian officer won second place with the Irish team, third place with the Stars of Texas, fourth with the Canadian team.

The Brooks' major triumph of the season was the victory over the Canadian team in the first period.

"Johnny really came through," Cronin commented. "I think my player in the league this year is the best player in the league."

He played a trump card in defense.

Despite the injury, Rosano will be in the lineup the second act in the final show staged here Thursday.

Broncos Challenge East If They Win

CALGARY, Nov. 9.—Calgary Bronco's bid for the Canadian football title, they are going to challenge for the Canadian title, Manager Leo Clegg said last night.

"We're not packing our bags for anything like that," he said, "but if we win we're going to go."

At present, Brooks held a three-game lead in the standings for the western title. The second game Thursday.

Broncos won the first 13.

Plan City League For Table Tennis

The increased interest shown by the public in table tennis one of the most popular indoor sports is to result in the formation of a city league in the past time into a competitive sport.

A meeting of the Edmonton City Table Tennis Association will be held in the YMCA, 15, at 8 p.m. Monday, November 15, for the purpose of forming a city league to be followed later by a provincial league. All who are interested in participating in the sport are urged to attend, particularly representatives of any club where members may be interested.

The game will be taken up in Kettner, St. Paul, and Maddington.

TEAM RASSE BOUTS RETURN HERE FRIDAY

Two Good Teams Chosen To Give Fans Added
Mat Thrills

Team wrestling, the kind of grappling that packs a thrill every second and which still has Edmonton fans talking after the bout of two weeks ago, return to the Memorial Hall here Friday.

The undefeated team of Al Christopoulos and Speedy Franklin will face the strong and tough Chisholm and French. The newcomer is "Mountain Hermit," a hillbilly from the Okanagan hills of British Columbia.

At first it was announced that the ring would be Klein Kuck would team up with Chisholm and Franklin and Speedy, but Kuck's injuries in Canada prevented him from coming to Edmonton.

Mountain Hermit should prove a challenge for Clayton, the latest one of the matmen to appear ever since in a ring here.

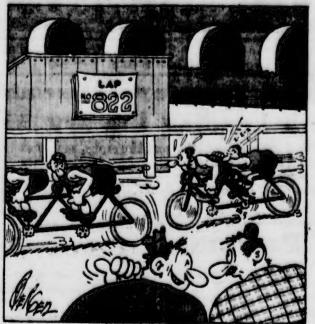

More information according to the advance card is that the clean and scientific or can be unorthodox depending on his opponent's mode of attack.

Friday night, it is a good guess he'll be quite dirty because both Christopoulos and Franklin do their share of mean musing.

The other two, the goosenecking German who made a name for the fan in his first grappling a semi-windup, Hillis, is matched against your old friend, the terrible Turk. Abdul Kahn has been away from these parts for better than a year now, so his return will be watched with interest.

Action starts at 8:30 p.m.
